PROUD TO BE CARLISLE COUNTY OWNED AND OPERATED

Senator Ken Winters Elects to Not Seek Third Term

Sen. Ken Winters, R-Murray, presents school testing ethics legislation in the Kentucky Senate last week

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly
First District Senator Ken Winters announced his intentions to not pursue the First District Senate seat in the upcoming election.
The 77-year-old Winters, who has served as First District Senator in the Kentucky State Senate for the past eight years, said in a statement, when he agreed to run for the Senate seat, he and his wife were in relatively good health. But now, he says health issues "have become a major obstacle."

The Carlisle Weekly spoke with Kentucky First District House Representative Steven Rudy about the decision that Senator Winters made. "The Commonwealth of Kentucky is a better place because of the service of Senator Ken Winters. I have often said no one is more qualified to serve in the General Assembly than Ken Winters. His knowledge of issues, passion for doing what is right, and humble service is unquestioned. It has been an honor for me to serve with Senator Winters for 8 years and I pray that he and Mrs. Shirley have a blessed retirement together," Rudy said in a statement. Winters has repeatedly expressed that his working relationship with Rep. Rudy gave him the opportunity to accomplish a lot in his position as Senator.

Bardwell Mayor Philip King said that Winters was always there for the City of Bardwell when they needed him. "It was an honor to work with Senator Winters and I respect him 110%. There was never a time that it wasn't him on the other end of the line when you called him and if you called him it was Winters who always called back, never one of his staff members," King said.
Mayor King also said that through the major disasters Bardwell faced, be it the 2009 Ice Storm, the hurricane or the flooding, Senator Winters was always the first to call Mayor King and ask how the people in Carlisle County and Bardwell were doing.
Joe Adams, a former Bardwell City Councilman and Bardwell resident, served in the Army Reserves with Senator Ken Winters and has been friends with him for nearly five decades. "I first met the then Second Lieutenant Winters at Fort Breckinridge in the late 50's. He is the best Senator Carlisle County has ever had and has done more for the county than anyone before him, be it the $300,000 water tower grant the City of Bardwell received or the $200,000 plus that the Carlisle County Senior Citizens Center received for remodeling, Senator Winters was there for us time and time again. He will be missed greatly, as he was a tremendous public servant," Adams said.

Democrat Carroll Hubbard, a former U.S. congressman from Mayfield, and Republican Stan Humphries, Judge Executive from Trigg County, have filed to run for Winters' seat.

CCMS Boys and Cheerleaders Take Home Top Honors

The Carlisle County 8th grade boys (left) and the CCMS Cheerleaders took home District Championships last week.

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly
Last week the Carlisle County Middle School hosted the 2012 First District Middle School Championships at Carlisle County High School.
On Saturday the champions were crowned, as the Carlisle County Middle School Comets capped off an impressive season by beating the Fulton County Pilots 37-31. The Comets were led in scoring by Noah Norsworthy who had ten points, Paxton Crider who had nine, Ethan Weatherspoon who had six, Landan Black who had five, Jordan Kellett who had four and Jonathan Wilson who had three.
For Carlisle County Middle School Coach Bryan Powell, Saturday's First District Championship capped off an impressive year for the Carlisle County eighth grade team. The team went 12-6 on the season and went undefeated in the First District going 8-0 counting the two district tournament wins.

When asked about his thoughts on this year's team, Powell told the Carlisle Weekly that this year's team could be special in the future. "Sometimes when an eighth grade team is dominant it's due to them being able to out muscle and outsize their competition. This year's team wasn't like that. As the year progressed the team gelled together and learned to pass and move the ball efficiently, creating chemistry. This team has a lot of room for growth physically, and they can do something special in their high school years if they stick together and continue to work hard to develop," Coach Powell said. Powell also included that it was a pleasure working with these young men and watching them develop over the past two years.

The boys weren't the only ones who took home some hardware either. The Carlisle County Middle School Cheerleading Squad took home 1st in the district in Floor cheer/sidelines and 2nd on their Cheer Routine.
The Carlisle County Middle School Lady Comets finished their season in the first round of the First District Tournament with a loss against the Hickman County Lady Falcons.

Fiscal Court Discusses Rescue Squad, County Roads

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The January 24, 2012, Carlisle County Fiscal Court meeting came to order with the approval of the previous meeting’s minutes and paused for the presentation on the burnt courthouse flag by the Carlisle County 4-H.

After the presentation, the meeting proceeded with the business of the county. In the DES/Solid Waste report, Carlisle County Judge Executive Greg Terry reported that the final dollars were received from FEMA on the 2009 Ice Storm. The approximately $179,000 was received by the county near the three year anniversary of the ice storm that crippled Carlisle County.

In the jail report, Carlisle County Jailer Ronny Owens reported that there were five inmates in the Ballard County Detention Center and two in the Hickman County Correctional Facility.

In the road department report, Road Supervisor Jerry Bowman reported that culverts were being placed and shoulder blading was being conducted on County Road 1211. Work also continued on roads in Laketon Bottoms, as two culverts were placed in that area.

On County Road 1037 retaining walls and concrete for the repair to that bridge were acquired. Bowman reported that he will soon be meeting with the Army Corp. of Engineers to discuss the problems that the bottoms area has been having with sand infiltration. In the Fish Lake area flooding and sand infiltration has become a major issue, as the county has had to repeatedly clean out the areas affected.

Bowman concluded his report by stating that the recycling dumpster that was in Milburn has been rotated to the site in Arlington, behind the City Hall.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Terry next brought up the idea of using the Nature Chem Company to combat rising costs of weed and grass maintenance on county roads. Terry said that the county is going to need to buy a bush hog and tractor for the upcoming mowing season and was approached by the people at Nature Chem, as they looked to use chemicals to treat the Carlisle County roadways. The 180 miles of Carlisle County roads would cost nearly $18,000 per year to spray and treat weeds and grass. A decision on that matter was tabled until next meeting, as the fiscal court will look to analyze the costs of gas and a new bush hog and tractor versus using Nature Chem’s services.

In the Carlisle County Sheriff’s report Sheriff Perry reported that his budget will be finalized in March. He also reported that through the LESO Program the county will be able to claim over $400,000 in equipment for the county. Items ranging from night vision goggles, to sleeping bags, laptop computers to items as big as humvees and dozers. The only cost to the county would be the cost of fuel to go get the items claimed.

The items acquired through the LESO Program are acquired from military surplus. The county would have to travel to Scott’s Air Force Base in Illinois to claim the bigger items such as humvees, dozers and boats.

In new business the Carlisle County Fiscal Court approved to help the Carlisle County Rescue Squad by consolidating all outstanding loans into one payment to decrease the amount of interest that is being paid. The loans, totaling $106,308, will be consolidated and a CD from the county will be put up for collateral. By doing this the Carlisle County Rescue Squad can refinance their loans at the municipality rate of 2%, as compared to the seven to eight percent that the rescue squad was originally facing. The loans will be paid back with the $8,000 plus that the rescue squad receives every year via grants and fundraisers that the rescue squad conducts throughout the year.

Carlisle County judge Executive Terry told the fiscal court that the Rescue Squad has been remodeled with a new Chief in Kelly Laird, and the squad and county are working to have the Rescue Squad cooperate fully with its by-laws.

In the final bit of county business before adjourning, the fiscal court approved the acquisition of a 2009 Chevy Tahoe and a 2010 Chevy Tahoe. The Tahoes were previously used as detective cars by the Missouri State Police and will be used by the ambulance service and the county as official county vehicles. The Tahoes will be purchased from the same agency that the Carlisle County Sheriff’s Department cars were purchased from.

Carlisle County 4-H Holds Flag Ceremony

The 4-H Council with the 15 star, 15 stripe flag (left) and Buddy High is presented with the “Friend of 4-H” award

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

On December 26, 2009, the Carlisle County Courthouse burned to the ground. Amongst the salvageable items that were rescued were courthouse documents and records. However, courthouse personal items, like the painting of the U.S.S. Carlisle and other courthouse memorabilia perished in the fire.

One of the personal items that was spared the wrath of the fire was the 15 star, 15 stripe flag that the Carlisle County 4-H Council purchased for the courthouse in 1992 honoring Kentucky’s bi-centennial. Cunningham Fire Department Volunteer Firefighter and Carlisle County 4-H Alumni Korie Bowles saved the flag from its burning case on that morning and aside from a few burn marks and holes on the flag saved it from unrecognizable damage.

On January 24th at the Carlisle County Fiscal Court Meeting, the Carlisle County 4-

H gave the fiscal court a presentation recalling the history of the flag and celebrated its rescue by Korie Bowles and the refurbishing of the wooden case that displayed the flag by Mr. Buddy High.

Brandi Gibson, who was a 4-H member at the time of the original flag ceremony in 1995, was present to sing “God Bless America”, “The Battle Hymn of the Republic” and “America the Beautiful”.

4-H members Alex Toon, Dakota Pender , and Sarah

Drysdale recited the history behind the flag and stated that the flag had 15 stars and stripes because Kentucky was the 15th state in the United States. Kathleen Webb then performed the Star Spangled Banner and Michelle Laird, 4-H Council President, presented Buddy High with the “Friend of 4-H Award” for his work on the shadow box that displays the flag in the current courthouse.

Horse Owners/Operators Needed for Kentucky Equine Survey

A looming deadline is near for all horsemen in Kentucky: Feb. 17. This is the last day when Kentucky horse owners can provide their name and contact information for sample surveys that will estimate the number of horses in Kentucky by county, breed, and use. The Kentucky Equine Survey happens this year, and the survey team hopes to receive at least 17,000 names and addresses for the survey. Kentucky proclaims itself “Horse Capital of the World,” yet it has been 35 years since there was an accurate count of the total number of equine in the state. All horse, pony, mule, and/or donkey owners and operators in the state are urged to participate in this upcoming survey. This important information will become available as the University of Kentucky, University of Louisville, Kentucky Horse Council, and National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) conduct a statewide equine study beginning in the summer of 2012. Results include a county-level estimate of the number of all breeds of horses, ponies, donkeys, and mules, and their uses, as well as the economic impact of equine-related activity across Kentucky. In order to ensure that each breed and discipline is accurately represented, NASS needs a complete list of horse owners and horse operation owners across the state. Horsemen are being asked to help build this list by sending their contact information directly to NASS. NASS protects this data, and no other agency, public or private, can access any individual’s information. This means the submitted information will not be used anywhere else or shared with any other organization, including those leading the survey. The NASS confidentiality pledge can be found at www.nass.usda.gov. Horse and facility owners, please send your name, address, and phone number to nass-ky@nass.usda.gov and put “Kentucky Equine Survey” in the subject line. Or you can go to www.kentuckyhorse.org/KES-names/ and complete the form, which will be sent directly to NASS. AGAIN, THE DEADLINE FOR THIS INFORMATION IS FEB. 17, 2012. With everyone’s help and participation, we will know by early 2013 how many horses there are in Kentucky, by type, use, and county, and what the overall economic impact is to the Commonwealth. This information will be used to strengthen the industry and provide a benchmark for Kentucky’s agricultural economy and its signature equine industry. For more information on the project, please visit: <https://www2.ca.uky.edu/equline/kyequinesurvey>

From Father’s Heart To Yours By Ralph and Pamela Hale

God’s Mountain

In Luke 9 verses 28-36 we find where Jesus took Peter, James and John up to a high mountain apart to pray.

The mountain has always been a place named in scripture where God would call His people to. The mountain has always been viewed as a place where one would get closer to god, even among pagan worshippers.

It was a mountain that God told Abraham to take Isaac to for the sacrifice. This would be the same high place where our Lord Jesus was crucified. Moses was called up in to the mountain to meet with God and receive the oracles of God for His people. Elijah went up into the mountain to battle the forces of Jezebel’s priest. The high place has always represented spiritual contact.

God called to Moses out of a burning bush on the side of the mountain and that mountain was designated as the place where the Israelites would come to, to worship.

The call of God has always been an invitation not a command. God said to Moses to come up unto me. But Moses had to exercise his will in order to do that. The invitation is still being given but we must exercise our will to go to the high place to meet with God.

There is always a reason for going higher with God. Abraham to sacrifice, Moses to receive the law, Elijah to war and pray, Jesus to pray, Peter, James and John to observe and learn.

Our reason for drawing near to God is more often than not a selfish one. Usually what we can get from God is our chief motivation. However, the scripture tells us to delight ourselves in the Lord first. Psalm 37:4, Is. 58

Jesus never went to be alone with God because He wanted to get something from him, except to hear His voice. Most of us read our Bible and pray out of duty and ritual more than we do expecting to hear God speak to us.

When we really go apart to be alone with God, when our reading is with excited hope in our heart, when our prayer is a real heartfelt communion with God, the result will be that we are changed by the experience. The more we are changed by the presence of God the more we will desire to be in it. Our ability to hear the invitation to come up higher and our will to do so will be because of our love for Jesus, a pure motive that will reap eternal dividends.

We will find that as we are changed by the presence of God, revelation will come, the prophetic will come, and the glory will come. There will come from our spirit the unsolicited cry: Lord it is good for me to be here! We will not be looking for excuses to miss the time with God or find reason to cut it short. But rather, it will grow into long continuance and our anticipation of spending this time in the secret place will grow to be the most prominent thing in our lives, our love for Jesus, our first love that we don’t want to ever leave.

Out of all this will come a heart burning desire to build for God’s glory. A witness and a testimony will rise from our hearts that just has to say to everyone we know and see that Jesus Christ loves you, He died for you and your sins and your life will be changed when Jesus lives in your heart.

Do you hear the invitation to come up higher? Then please Go!

ONE PRESSON’S VIEW

By Kay Presson

One of the many interesting aspects of being employed at Hancock’s of Paducah is the many beautiful fabrics, and being an artist, I get inspired by some of them. Thus, one of the designs is in Timeless Treasures...monkeys in trees.

As a teenager and young adult, after I had left home and married, my father, H.R. Throgmorton Sr., somehow brought a Cappucine monkey to their home on Cold Springs Road in West Paducah. Folks, that was the meanest, nastiest animal I had ever seen.

On one of my visits, my youngest brother, Rusty, showed me a bite on his face between his eyebrows. When asking him what happened, he told me the account of being bitten by Susie the monkey. Seems there was a thunderstorm and Susie was scared and jumped on top of the refrigerator. Daddy told Rusty to reach up and get Susie and hold her, since she was scared. Rusty, being an obedient child, reached up with extended hands to get Susie. Just then, a big clap of thunder rolled and Susie bounded off the refrigerator, grabbed Rusty’s ears and bit him between the eyes. Mama like to have never got Susie pried loose!

Then, another incident involved my youngest sister, Judi. There was a clothesline in the kitchen above the kitchen table...Judi was eating breakfast when Susie swung above her on the clothesline and defecated on Judi. Judi missed the school bus, having to wash her hair, and still remembers to this day the incident.

Finally, Lloyd and I went to visit my parents and siblings one Sunday after church. Lloyd was sitting on the couch with a big window behind him. Glancing up, I noticed Susie had scaled the drapes and was perched right above where Lloyd was sitting. Being discreet, I whispered to him..."you might better scoot over, that monkey is right above you." And, he did scoot over, and good thing, for Susie hung her rear end over and dropped a big load right where he had been sitting.

One of my co-workers asked me if I remembered when Noble Park had monkeys in a small zoo. That has been a long time ago, yet I do remember. Folks, monkeys are cute, however, my experiences with Susie the monkey are memorable! Monkeys are wild animals! If you have any monkey stories...please share.

And, I want to thank Michael Toon for his patience and consideration, for I have had computer problems for months, and have had no internet. I have written my column in long-hand, and Michael has typed it in newspaper format. Thank you, Michael!

This week's inspiration

This week's inspiration from scripture verses Mark 1:21-28 and the sermon titled “Jesus’ Astounding Authority”: Mark writes about the beginning of Jesus’ ministry. His teaching was a new kind. It wasn’t like that of the scribes. Jesus came to the point and opened their minds to understand the scriptures. Jesus wasn’t just teaching the Bible, He was dwelling in it. His authority was clear to everyone. When He began to speak, the demon in these scripture verses became very uncomfortable. When He commanded the demon to leave, this helped confirm His authority. Jesus has the authority to speak directly to what is harming our lives. The Holy Spirit can clean the ‘debris’ in our lives. Receiving healing may not be predictable and may be painful. Do you recognize Jesus’ authority? Some of the demons in our lives may be easier to hold onto than to let go. Replace your ‘demons’ with the Spirit of God.

Open hearts. Open minds. Open doors.

My Days as a Racer

As 2012 Racers Reach 22-0, Kirbyton Native Reflects on His Days as a Murray State Racer

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

On the national scene a small Western Kentucky school is making big waves with their winning ways. The small school that is capturing the imagination of the college basketball world and the sporting nation is the Murray State Racers of the Ohio Valley Conference. The Racers, as of press time, sat alone as the only undefeated team in the nation at 22-0 and ranked nationally in the top ten, as they are ranked #8 in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll and #10 in the Associated Press Poll.

It's a story that Carlisle County Comet fans can relate to, as their beloved 1983 Comets team made national headlines in the USA Today newspaper, as it made its run to the 1983 Kentucky State Sweet 16 Runner-Up. When digging further for a Carlisle County connection to the Murray State Racers, very few know of a Comet that grew up to be a Racer.

Jarrod Martin is a 1993 graduate of Carlisle County High School and went on to be a walk-on at Murray State University through the 1993-1994 seasons. Martin is the only Carlisle County High alumnus to go on to play major division one college basketball. In his years at Murray State University, the Racers wreaked havoc on the OVC, going a combined 83-35 in his years at Murray State, as the Racers made two NIT appearances and two NCAA Tournament appearances. On the court, opportunities to play were relegated to mop up duty when the Racers were up 20 or down 20. However, Martin gained respect and was a fan favorite throughout his years at Murray State due to his small stature (5'8") and his abnormal leaping ability, quickness and personality.

With the Racers succeeding in the once in a generation way they are this year, the Carlisle Weekly caught up with the former Comet and Racer, as he reflected on his years as a Racer and how his teams stack up against this year's undefeated squad.

CARLISLE WEEKLY (CW): Talk about your times at Murray State, what it took to be a walk on for the Racers, the dedication that had to be given, etc. How did you becoming a walk on come about?

JARROD MARTIN (JM): Being a Racer was an honor that I really had very little to do with, but it was the Carlisle County connection through the historic 1983 Comet team that got me a spot on the team. Coach John Tyler, I think, contacted his old high school team mate David Rambo. Coach Tyler sent him a few tapes of games, and basically Coach Tyler told me that being a walk-on at MSU was a real possibility.

CW: Explain the overall experience of playing at Murray State University, the NCAA Tournament memories, unforgettable moments.

JM: I'll never forget coming out of the tunnel at Racer Arena to a sell-out crowd where there was standing room only around the track at the top. For four years, I was the second or third person out of the tunnel, right behind Marcus Brown. During my senior year, I led the team out of the tunnel a few games, and started senior night.

I remember my first practice most vividly. It was the first day that the coaches could be with us to condition and work out. We were told to meet at the football stadium track for some running. We were all standing around leisurely stretching and warming up when Coach Edgar came out of the building yelling, "RUN! RUN! RUN!" We ran a "warm up" lap, and then he punished us with 400, 200, 100, 50 and 25 meter runs. And then we headed to the gym for suicides and sprints. We weren't called the Running Racers for nothing.

I will always be grateful and humbled by the great fans of Racer basketball for their kindness to me. They were my fans despite my few minutes. They have always treated me with honor and respect, and I will never forget the way they embraced me, a walk-on, from the very first time I got into a game.

I also remember being at the first game of the Arkansas Razorbacks' new arena in 1993, Bud Walton Arena. I also got to shake hands with Dean Smith and Coach K in our two NCAA appearances against UNC and Duke. The year we played UNC, I got to play 13 seconds at the end of the game where I was standing between future NBA All-Stars Jerry Stackhouse and Rasheed Wallace at the free-throw line before they exited the game.

Our three point loss to Duke in 1997 was one of my fondest memories. Hall of Fame Coach Mike Krzyzewski came into our locker room after the game and congratulated us all. He said we were one of the toughest teams they had played all season. Then, he turned to Vincent Rainey, our top scorer, and shook his hand and told him he was a great player. I was standing about four feet away. It was a real moment of pride at that moment to be honored with that team by one of the most successful coaches in college basketball history.

CW: What does the Racer tradition mean and what are your thoughts on the 22-0 start for the 2012 team? How does it make you feel as a person who has been a part of the rich Racer tradition to see them do what they are doing.

JM: For me, the success of this year's team has been what I've been waiting for. The Racer win against Vanderbilt two years ago was that moment that set this current team up for their run at greatness, but for so many years, the second and third place conference finishes by the Racers just didn't seem right.

Those were good teams, but they couldn't seem to make it to the top and I have to say, I didn't like it. But there is a certain comfort in know that this team is re-establishing the Racer legacy. The four years I played, we didn't lose a game on our home floor. At the time, we had the longest winning home streak in the nation and we beat Memphis in Racer Arena. We had no more than 10 losses in any season. Since 1997 there have been seven seasons with more than ten losses. We finished 1st in the conference regular season every year, but since 97 there have been only six 1st place finishes. This year's team is doing far more than anyone could dream, but the winning tradition is being reclaimed.

CW: Your former Murray State Head Coach, now Head Coach at NC State, Mark Gottfried was quoted as saying that the 1997 was a better team that this year's squad. How do you think these undefeated Racers stack up against the teams you played on?

JM: I think that 97' team was something special. Chad Townsend and De'Teri Mayes would match up very well with Canaan and Poole. Vincent Rainey and Mayes both averaged 21 points a game that year. Canaan and Poole are close to that, but not quite there.

Another difference is that the teams I played on had a pretty deep bench. Aaron Page, Darren Dawson, Arnell Hamilton, these guys could play. I don't think our defense was as good as what I've seen from this year's team, and these guys this year just don't make many mistakes with the ball. You don't see them beating themselves. They don't make bad decisions. So, while our talent may have been better, these guys have the discipline and decision-making that hides all weaknesses.

CW: What are you doing now? Give the readers of the Carlisle Weekly a feel for what you have been doing since you left Carlisle County and graduated Murray State.

JM: I'm currently teaching 9th and 10th grade English at Calloway County High. I'm the father of three kids: Isaac, Emma and Ella. About six years ago, my wife Sarah and I helped launch a new church in Murray, The Journey. We knew that there were a lot of people our age who used to go to church or who had never been in church, and for whatever reason, they weren't going to go to a traditional church. We've seen God bless our desire to see people far from God be drawn to Him, and we've grown from around 100 people on Sundays to averaging over 300.

I have also opened my own web design business because I love helping people tell their story online. My business, OlliEleven.com, tries to give individuals and small businesses a professional online presence without a huge price tag. The web is so open and flexible, but lots of small businesses don't know how to tap into many of the easy and even free services that can help them create better customer contacts on the web.

Farmer Incentives to Go Green for 2012

$2 Million Available for On-farm Energy Efficiency or Production Projects

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Jan. 30, 2012) – The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board (KADB), chaired by Governor Steve Beshear, announces the availability of $2 million in Kentucky Agricultural Development Funds (KADF) for on-farm energy efficiency or production projects. Guidelines for the KADB’s new On-farm Energy Efficiency & Production Incentives Program are now available online at ag-energy.ky.gov.

“From 2009-2011, Kentucky farmers benefitted from the availability of stimulus funds for on-farm energy efficiency improvements. Over a three year period, more than $1.4 million was invested in 190 on-farm energy projects, saving our farm families more than $2 million in energy costs per year,” said Gov. Steve Beshear. “Because of the success of this program, the KADB chose to continue this effort to help even more farmers make the farm operations more energy efficient.”

The on-farm energy incentive program will provide 25 percent reimbursement of the actual cost of a qualified energy saving item, up to $10,000. Permissible items include, but are not limited to, energy audits, energy efficient farm building components, on-farm energy upgrades and on-farm energy efficiency training. Only expenditures made after March 11, 2011 will be eligible for reimbursement.

“Over the last several years, reducing energy usage and developing alternative sources of energy have become critical issues for Kentucky agriculture,” stated Roger Thomas, executive director of GOAP. “This program has helped Kentucky’s farm families improve on-farm energy efficiency with stimulus funds, saving more than 350 billion BTUs of energy per year. Now additional farms can improve their energy efficiency incentives from the KADF.”

All applications received from across the Commonwealth will be reviewed on a quarterly basis and scored by a committee comprised of representatives from GOAP, the Kentucky Agricultural Development Board, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and USDA Rural Development. The first quarterly deadline is April 30, 2012.

All applications meeting the minimum requirements of eligibility will be considered for funding. If the total eligible applications exceed the available funds, the committee will rank the applications using scoring criteria. Applicants will be notified of their approval.

The 2012 KADF On-farm Energy Efficiency and Production Incentives Program is designed to help achieve the goals of Gov. Steve Beshear’s Intelligent Energy Choices for Kentucky’s Future: Kentucky’s 7-Point Energy Strategy, and will be part of the effort to meet 18 percent of Kentucky’s energy needs from efficiency improvements by 2025.

For questions about the application process for the KADF On-farm Energy Incentives Program, please contact Bill McCloskey or Angie Justice at 502-564-4627 or govkyagpolicy@ky.gov. The application is also available online at ag-energy.ky.gov.

NATURAL RESOURCES CONSERVATION SERVICE ANNOUNCES SIGNUP TO GRASSLAND RESERVE PROGRAM

January 17,2012—Natural Resources Conservation Service in Kentucky is accepting applications for the Grassland Reserve Program (GRP). Although GRP applications are continually accepted, the application ranking cutoff dates for 2012 are February 15 and April 2. Applications received after April 2, 2012 will be deferred until the next ranking cycle.

The Grassland Reserve Program is a voluntary program offering landowners and operators the opportunity to protect grazing uses and related conservation values by conserving and restoring grassland resources.

The focus of GRP in Kentucky will emphasize preservation of native and naturalized grasslands and protection of grazing operations with excellent land management practices. Those easement offers that enhance or establish native grasses, will receive ranking preference for easements while rental offers that exhibit proper grazing use will receive ranking preference for rentals.

The compensation portion of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 for GRP authorizes easement compensation based on the fair market value of the land, as determined by and appraisal or an area-wide market analysis or survey, which takes into account the grassland value, and is limited to a geographic cap or the landowner offer. GRP rental contracts provide selected landowners and operators to receive annual payments to maintain or restore grassland functions and values for the length of the contract.

All participants in GRP are required to implement a grazing management plan which will be developed in conjunction with NRCS.

Eligible land for GRP includes grasslands for which grazing or haying is predominant use, or land that has been historically dominated by grassland, forbs, or shrub land. Restoration for land enrolled in GRP has a maximum cost share rate of 50%. Additional program information is provided on the NRCS Kentucky Web page: <http://www.ky.nrcs.usda.gov/> programs. Scroll down to Grassland Reserve Program.

Interested landowners and operators should contact John Shely, District Conservationist, County Name(s) at phone number 270-554-5242.
